It's Important!!—Landline Telephone Service

Having a landline in your home is more than a matter of comfort—it is an asset for your home and family security.

During a power outage, people can rely on landlines with traditional (not cordless) phones. Traditional corded phones don't need to be charged, so long power outages will not affect their ability to make or receive calls.

NKTelco provides an emergency backup system that keeps phone lines working when the power goes out. Therefore, you can call out and receive calls during a power outage.

It is true that cell phones don't need power to send or receive calls, however they do require electricity to recharge the battery. Also, calls made to 911 from your landline will immediately show your location, a cell phone will not.

Our office will be closed on the following days:

November 26, 2009 —
Thanksgiving

December 25, 2009 —
Christmas

January 1, 2010—
New Years Day
